

SERBIA LOSING
IN GREAT FIGHT

Teutonic Allies Overrunning Serbia and Blood Flows in Streams as Bitter Battles Rage—Report Says Teutons and Bulgars Form the Connecting Link—Wounded Pour Into Saloniki—Russia Has Declared War on Bulgaria.

By Associated Press.
London, October 20.—Latest reports from the near East indicate that Serbia is in deadly danger of being overwhelmed by the armies of her neighbor.

No less than eight Bulgarian forces have crossed into Serbian territory.

The Austro-German forces are advancing slowly but steadily, their latest claim being that a junction has been effected to the west of Semendria.

The railroad between Nish and Saloniki has been cut by the Bulgarians, sweeping over the frontier in superior numbers.

No news has been received of the movements of the Anglo-French army, which is known to have been in action as the arrival of French wounded at Saloniki has been reported.

London, October 20.—It is reported from Frankfort that the central powers have decided to undertake still another campaign, this time against Montenegro.

According to this report, forwarded from Amsterdam, 20,000 Austrian and German infantrymen, with artillery, have arrived in Bosnia, about 60 miles north of the Montenegrin border, and will soon be dispatched against the Montenegrins.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, L. I., October 20.—Capture by the Bulgarians of 2,000 prisoners and 12 cannon in Serbia was announced today by the German War Office.

The report also states that Bulgarian troops have captured Sultan Tepe. Austrian troops have made a further advance on Shabatz, on the Save west of Belgrade.

The Serbians have been thrown back south of Lucija and Bozevac.

Petrograd, October 20.—An imperial manifesto declaring war against Bulgaria appeared today under date of October 18.

It was accompanied by a communication reviewing the friendly service of Russia for Bulgaria in the past and pointing out the treachery of King Ferdinand.

Saloniki, Greece, October 20.—A large French force is on its way to Saloniki.

French forces have succeeded thus far in protecting the lower end of the Nish-Saloniki railway.

The capital of Serbia has been transferred from Nish to Prizrend, in western Serbia, close to the Albanian frontier.

LOSES IN NEW JERSEY

By Associated Press.

Trenton, N. J., October 20.—Latest returns today on the state election yesterday indicate that the proposed amendment to the state constitution granting suffrage to women was defeated by a majority of more than 50,000.

Returns from 1,679 out of 1,891 election districts give a vote of 133,657 for, and 187,849 against the amendment.

MRS. GALT
AN ANTI?

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 20.—No comment on the defeat of suffrage in New Jersey was forthcoming from the White House today, but President Wilson received the returns with interest.

Published reports that Mrs. Norman Galt, the president's fiancée, is opposed to woman suffrage, although not actively so, remained undenied in well informed circles, but no statement was obtainable.

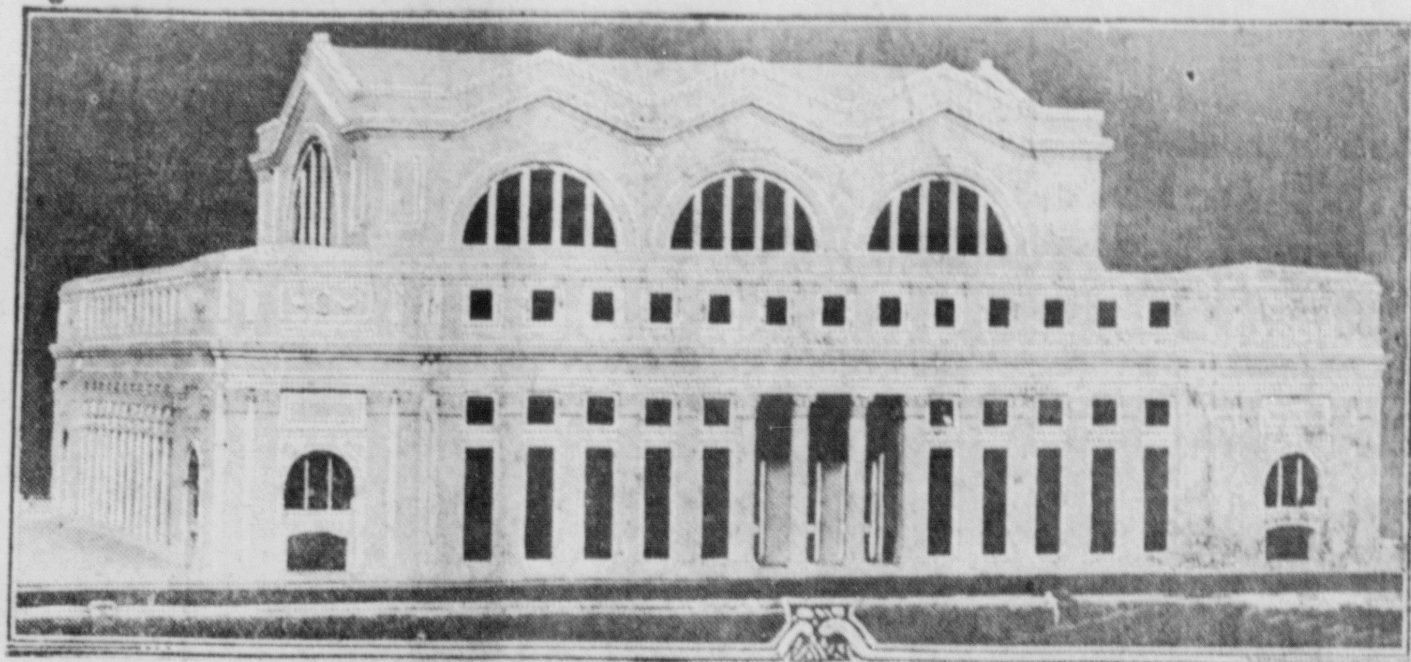

PRESIDENT GETS
GOLD FOR RING

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 20.—President Wilson today received a delegation of women and girls from California, who gave him a piece of gold from a California mine to make a wedding ring for Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancée.

The delegation brought petitions signed by 300,000 Californians urging the president to visit the San Francisco exposition.

CARSON IS EXPECTED TO MAKE STARTLING CHARGE

By Associated Press.

London, October 20.—The illness of Premier Asquith has brought a lull in political activity, and the crisis which many persons expected would develop in the cabinet this week is hardly likely to occur until the premier is able to appear in the House of Commons.

At that time, Sir Edward Carson may give a public explanation of his resignation of the attorney generalship.

The Times says his resignation was more directly concerned with the eastern war than with recruiting, and adds that when Sir Edward comes to define his position "it will probably be found that his main objection to remaining in the cabinet is the profound conviction that the present machinery of government is incapable of waging war successfully."

Many other papers advocate a smaller cabinet.

London, October 20.—Sir Edward Carson announced in the House of Commons today that his resignation from the attorney generalship was due to divergence of views in regard to near Eastern affairs.

EMBARGO IS PLACED ON MUNITIONS FOR REBELS

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 20.—President Wilson today declared an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition to Mexico.

He signed a supplementary order, however, which excepts General Carranza's government from the embargo, and permits munitions to go through to him unhampered.

The prohibition applies to the factions opposed to the government which the United States has recognized.

The proclamation is based on the authority conferred by Congress in 1912 and follows closely the terms of President Taft's proclamation issued when the revolution was on against Madero.

The president cites his authority for such action and declares that such conditions of domestic violence as exist in Mexico are prompted by the use of munitions of war procured in the United States, as contemplated by the act of Congress, and gives warning that all violations of the embargo will be prosecuted.

The Villa agency here closed its doors today and the junta scattered.

It was announced that in view of the recognition of General Carranza there was no further need for maintaining it.

The closing of the agency was regarded as significant in the Latin colony, as indicating the Villa forces were not going in for an active campaign, at least in Washington.

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., October 20.—Summit was the banner county in the state for the number of births during 1914, for it had 3998 babies to its credit for the year, making a birth rate of 31.5 a thousand of population. Lake county has the lowest rate, 11.7.

This was shown in statistics made public today by Dr. Morton W. Bland, chief registrar of vital statistics. A report made a week ago indicated that the total number of births in the state last year was 98,796 of whom 50,442 were boys and 48,256 girls. The birth rate for the state was 19.6 a thousand.

New York, October 20.—The United States government began today the presentation of its evidence against William Rockefeller and ten other directors of the New Haven Railroad, charged with conspiracy to monopolize railroads and trolley lines of New England.

Secretary of Navy in Speech at Raleigh, N. C., Today Says Uncle Sam Will Build Many Vessels and Manufacture Supplies in His Own Naval Yards and Prevent Huge Corporations From Reaping Usual Rich Harvest—Explains Five Year Bigger Navy Plan

By Associated Press.

Raleigh, N. C., October 20.—What the navy expects to do toward preventing private manufacturers from reaping excessive profits on the expenditure of hundreds of millions involved in the administration's national defense program was outlined here today by Secretary Daniels in a speech at the North Carolina state fair. Mr. Daniels said his annual report to congress would recommend legislation to enable the government to equip itself to build more naval craft, make its own armor plate and greatly extend its manufacture of munitions.

"The government has invested many millions of dollars in navy yards," said the secretary "and unless this investment is utilized for new construction much of it is wasted. If the government is prepared to construct naval craft, private ship-building companies desiring contracts must compete with government yards. This tends to secure competitive prices and prevent combination between private corporations to charge higher prices than conditions justify."

"Not only must the yards be able to build ships, but, naval establishments should be equipped to manufacture a portion of all munitions of war."

'SHINERS
GUILTY

By Associated Press.

Fort Smith, Ark., October 20.—Seven men, on trial charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in the manufacture of Moonshine whisky, pleaded guilty in the United States District Court here today. Sentence will be passed tomorrow.

The case against Fred Bowles, of Fort Smith, the eighth defendant, was dismissed.

The cases against the defendants went to trial yesterday and their action today was a surprise.

In this connection, Mr. Daniels pointed out that the government paid 80 cents a pound to a private manufacturer a few years ago for making powder but the navy now was making it at a cost of about 25 cents a pound. Torpedoes and mines, he said, also were being manufactured by the navy at a great saving of money.

"Wise men, in and out of the navy, believe that the program, involving an expenditure of five hundred million dollars, will give us a navy well proportioned and far better than so large a program if it should be authorized in piecemeal, year by year. The program is based upon all that could be learned by naval experts in Europe and our naval statesmen in America."

Hope that an international understanding eventually might be reached by the naval powers was expressed by the secretary. "I trust," he said, "that this country will take the initiative and that steps will be taken by a conference of all the powers to discuss reduction of the heavy cost of the army and navy."

VALIANT STRUGGLE FAILS

Campaign Attracted National Attention and Equal Suffragists Express Keen Disappointment Over the Result—Politicians and the Liberals Lined Up Against the Proposition. Antis Carry President's Ward.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 20.—By a majority of more than 50,000 the voters of New Jersey defeated the woman suffrage amendment to the state constitution at yesterday's special election.

The big counties of Hudson and Essex, where the fight centered, gave decisive majorities against the amendment. The city of Trenton and Mercer county voted against adoption of the amendment by a large majority.

The refusal of the men of New Jersey to share with women the responsibility of governmental affairs will, it is believed, have a far-reaching influence on equal suffrage campaigns now being carried on in New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The woman suffragists of New Jersey, who made a valiant fight in a campaign that attracted much attention all over the country, were greatly disappointed over the result, as the promises they had received and as canvasses they made led the leaders of the cause to believe that they were surely going to win.

The defeat of suffrage was due to the fact that many men who told the women they were going to cast their ballots for suffrage voted the other way when they got into the booths, alone by themselves, and to the fact that the politicians of both Democratic and Republican parties did not want to have the women put their fingers in the political pie. Therefore they instructed their lieutenants to vote "no," and their orders were carried out.

Another element that entered into the success of the opposition was the

BIG SUBJECTS GIVEN ATTENTION

Toledo, Oct. 20.—Charges that Ohio is deep in the rut of indifference were made by speakers here at the meeting of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, whose 50,000 members are represented by 500 delegates. Specialists presented the problems of the feeble-minded, statewide prohibition, public leisure, good roads and the socialization of the public schools. Every reference, direct or indirect, to suffrage for women was roundly applauded. A determined fight for a strict state eugenics law will be launched. The club women will petition Governor Willis and the board of administration to confirm their endorsement of Sarah Douglas as matron of the reformatory at Marysville.

Mrs. Cornelius B. Selover, first vice president of the Women's club, was nominated for the office of vice president-at-large. She will be elected without opposition, delegates declare.

WIDE SPREAD IN ITS EFFECTS

Columbus, Oct. 20.—The supreme court ousted the Northern Ohio Traction and Light company from its franchise rights in Stark county. The company claimed it had a perpetual franchise to use the public highway for its line between Massillon and Canton, eight miles. The franchise contained no time limitation and on this fact the company based its claim to perpetuity. The supreme court held that a franchise which contains no time stipulation is not a perpetual franchise, but is one that may be terminated by either party at any time. The Northern Ohio will now be compelled to make a new deal with the Stark county authorities.

BROAD VIEW WILL OBTAIN IS THE WORD

New York, Oct. 20.—In reply to the message of a local newspaper, with regard to the truth of reports of the persecution of Catholics under the constitutional government, General Carranza sent the following reply from San Pedro, Mexico:

"The constitutional government has never persecuted the Catholic religion, nor the ministers of any other cult. Some Catholic clergymen have fled from the country fearful of being prosecuted for the political aid they gave to the so-called government of General Huerta and the traitorous division of the north commanded by General Villa. The constitutionalist government will enforce the observance of the Mexican laws, giving guarantee for the free exercise of all religions, and will protect the persons of native and foreign clergymen who don't mix in the political life of the country."

RECOGNITION FOR FORCES OF FIRST CHIEF

European Nations and Japan Will Fall In Line.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Now that the United States and the majority of the Latin-American countries have formally recognized General Carranza as chief executive of the de facto government of Mexico, the state department has reason to believe that the European powers and Japan will in the near future follow the same course. The European governments have been waiting only for the United States to select some faction in Mexico to receive its support before taking similar action themselves. Their representatives here have indicated that they would welcome any opportunity to establish full diplomatic relations with some government in Mexico, as they are anxious to have some responsible authority in Mexico to whom claims can be presented.

There will be no joint action by the government's representatives in the Pan-American conference in regard to measures by which friendly aid is to be extended to the newly recognized government in Mexico. This, it is said in official quarters, is to be left to each government to determine for itself.

It has been taken for granted here that the extending of recognition to Carranza will be followed shortly by the reimposition of the embargo on arms to other factions. Villa now possesses no funds and officials believe he would be rendered virtually helpless for lack of arms and ammunition after a few months of an embargo.

CENSORSHIP IS GIVEN A KNOCK

London, Aug. 20.—The Daily Mail used a speech delivered by Lord Selborne as the basis for one of its periodic attacks on the censorship. Lord Selborne condemned the censorship, which is now controlled by his colleague, Sir John Simon, for suppressing bad news, and declared that this practice was inspired by mischievous stupidity. The Mail says that a reproach of one member of the cabinet by another would be humorous if it were not that behind the situation lie tragedies of which the public is unaware. The wounded, says this paper, are bringing back the truth from the front.

Shadows of Complications

The shadows of future complications in the Orient with Japan regarding the trade with China and involving almost every commercial nation on the globe, continue to grow.

Japan, while all Europe is engaged in war, is as busy as the proverbial little bee closing up that "open door" to China. Not only are the nations of Europe directly affected but the United States, a party to the open door agreement, is also directly affected.

The Japanese government as a part of the now very evident intention to seize upon the present conditions as the opportune time to monopolize the trade with China, has ordered that the ports of Tsingtau and Shantung be closed except that one British vessel a week is allowed to enter the ports of those two provinces. The railroad running through the provinces is dominated by the Japanese so that every nation is entirely cut off from the commerce with the provinces.

The excuse for the action of the Japanese is that the former German province captured by Japan in the far east campaigns must be held by the captors as a trophy of war, at least until hostilities are ended.

While the reason for closing the door to the two provinces mentioned has some little of merit, yet being one of a long series of circumstances, which show clearly the intention of Japan to possess herself of China and her immense commerce notwithstanding the "open door" agreement to which that nation was a party, complications involving practically every commerce carrying nation of the world are certain to occur, after the close of the European war, unless Japan recedes from her present determination.

The United States has always insisted on an open door trade agreement among the nations with respect to China and it is unlikely that consent will be given to the appropriation of that entire trade by the government of the Mikado.

The Brokers' Teeter-board

The past few months have been crowded with prosperity for the brokers. The many long months of famine have been forgotten in the enjoyment of the months of plenty.

Unfortunately, it seems from the published reports from financial centers, the brokers have, in the forgetfulness of the past, which the coming of plenty brought with it, been incautious in partaking of the feast.

Several prominent brokerage firms have failed with a total of liabilities greatly exceeding their assets.

They have lived through the hard times only to encounter financial disaster and go down in ruin just when the opportunity for profit was brightest.

There is something fascinating and destructive of caution in this game the brokers play. When retrenchment and caution are necessary the broker can conduct his business as conservatively as the most cautious financier, and he does so. When the opportunity for tremendous profits and quick results presents itself the broker throws caution to the winds and proceeds upon the presumption that fortune's wheel will never turn back.

The long headed financiers have cautioned, time and time again, against the very recklessness that is proving the undoing of too many stock brokers.

The tendency to anticipate that advance which comes as a result of a demand exceeding supply and, when expectations, in that particular, are not realized, to create and maintain by wild buying and selling, a fictitious market price is what causes the broker to be loaded up with stocks, purchased at a price higher than the laws of supply and demand justify, and short of enough cash to buy all offered on the market, is the cause of the trouble.

Fortunately, however, these failures only effect a few individuals directly interested and have no important bearing upon real values.

When brokers fail to maintain a market it does not mean that the real price has fallen, but rather that the real price is again controlling and the fictitious price has been forced aside by sterner and more wholesome laws that the broker's game enacts.

The series of smashups only denote a temporary condition and the brokers are, while bankrupt for the time being, as anxious to get back to a real basis as is the general public.

The broker is accustomed to his ups and his downs and never complains much if he falls far enough to satisfy his pride. So long as the broker is on the teeter-board enjoying its thrills he is not much concerned if he happens to be on the down end so long as he has had one joyful ascent and that he has certainly had during the last few months.

Poetry For Today

NO PLACE LIKE HOME.

The wind is in the pine trees now,
and whispers in the corn,
And marigolds are blooming 'round
the house where I was born,
And there's a little bit of bed, and
two old-fashioned chairs,
Beside the bed in that small room
where once I slept upstairs;
And squirrels scamper on the roof
the way they used to do,
And little clouds are just as white and skies are just as blue
As what they ever used to be, and wildbirds sing and call,
And I can't see that the old world is getting old at all.

The whippoorwill must sing at night
the way he used to sing,
I know that there's a barrel sunk
around the bubbling spring,
I know the wheels make thunder tones across the bridge I know,
On whose abutments I used to sit fishing long ago;
And the woodpile is by the door, the pigs are in the pen—
I do not think I care to go to that old home again;
This city life may be all flare, and
not much to the good,
But I don't care to feed the pigs or care to wrestle food.

Who wants to hear the whippoorwill
may have the wood to chop,
Who wants to hear the wildbirds sing
may have the pigs to sloop,
Who wants to hear the autumn
winds speak softly in the trees
May go and hear them speak that way—and have the rigs to grease;
I love to see the woodsmoke rise above the cottage small,
I love to hear the whippoorwill in the dark woodland call,
I love to hear the thunder of the wheels above the stream,
I love to go and find the cows and milk them—in a dream.

Luke McLuke Says

The reason a man feels proud to be seen in a ringside seat at a prizefight is because he would hate to be seen in a rear seat at an uplift meeting.

A whole lot of married men have to use the rear entrances to their homes because their wives won't let them soil the "Welcome" on the doormat on the front porch.

A man often finds the surroundings of his home attractive. The trouble is that the "surroundings" are usually so far away from his home.

The scientist who announced that insomnia is not contagious doesn't know what he is talking about. When your baby or your neighbor's cat can't sleep
you are in the same fix.

Once upon a time there was a banker who wrote his signature so plainly that you could tell what it meant. But he starved to death. People wouldn't trust him.

A boy can go barefooted six months out of the twelve and then wear out more shoes than a man who wears shoes all year around.

A man won't believe it. But his political opinions are less important than the way he does his work.

We once knew a pitcher who worked in eleven full games without giving a single base on balls. But every time he threw a chew of tobacco away he missed the spittoon.

It isn't always unbelief that causes
a man to keep away from church.
Maybe he had a church wedding when he was married.

DONALD MACKENZIE

THE LUCKY COIN THAT PROVED A POOR TALISMAN—DONALD MACKENZIE'S STRANGE
ADVENTURE.

Donald Mackenzie, the well known Pathe producer, several months ago happened to be sitting at the same table in a Broadway restaurant with a distinguished looking stranger who looked like a Spaniard. Conversation started between the two, and an impromptu friendship was struck up.
The stranger had some interesting experiences to relate—he had been for twenty years in South America, had accumulated a fortune, and was now on his way home to Spain after a trip through the United States. He was lonely, very lonely, and Mr. Mackenzie was the first congenial acquaintance he had met since he left Peru. He regretted that on the morrow he would have to sail for home, for he had enjoyed the acquaintance of the senior much. But wait, he would like to leave the senior a slight token of his regard, a coin, a very old coin, which he had dug from the prehistoric ruins of Peru. He had found two of them years ago when he was destitute and discouraged, and they had given him much luck. From that day he has prospered. The senior with that coin must prosper, too.

When the stranger left after a warm handshake, Mr. Mackenzie found in his hand the coin. It was weird enough in looks to be an extraordinary luck bringer, so "Mac" slipped it into his pocket and forgot about it.

A week later he had a letter from an old friend of his in Scotland, saying that he had enlisted to fight for England in the great war and was leaving for the front probably within two or three weeks. "Mac" thought of his lucky coin, and decided his friend needed it to ward off hostile bullets.
He sat down at once and wrote him,
enclosing the coin, telling his friend that it was "big medicine" and would bring him glory, medals and promotions galore. Thus ended the first chapter in the tale of the lucky coin.

Last week "Mac" heard from his friend again for the first time since he sent the coin. It was from an army hospital somewhere in France,
and ran in part as follows:

"You may have your 'big medicine' coin and welcome. You'll find it enclosed herewith. Here's what it's done for me. We left for the front the next day after I got it and I was sick as a dog all the way over the channel, being the only man on board who was.
For it was a remarkably smooth passage. Landing on the dock a rifle accidentally fell on my foot and smashed it. We were at once ordered to the front, and my regiment was stationed in that part of the trenches where the fighting was the hottest, and it's my private belief that I was at the hottest point. I was wounded in the arm almost at once, slightly it's true, but painfully. I stuck it out and about two hours later had a bullet part my hair very neatly, but the hair will never grow again where the bullet cut. Not long after that something hit me a wallop, and I woke up in this hospital bandaged from head to foot—one wound in the head, one in each arm, one in the stomach, and one in my right leg.
That wasn't the end of it. I've just heard that my fiancée back in Scotland has married another man. Take back your 'big medicine'—I spurn it."
Somehow, or other, the ocean liner carrying the "lucky" coin back to America escaped being torpedoed, but the captain never knew what an ill-omened token was aboard.

Mr. Mackenzie got this letter while he was directing a scene in Richard Carle's play "Mary's Lamb." He told everybody to wait for a few minutes, and then dashed for the door. He isn't the least bit superstitious, but two minutes later he might be seen making a bee line for the Pallades, on the edge of which are located the Pathe studios. Pausing on the rim of the dizzy cliff, he flung the coin as far from him as he could. As near as he could judge it fell on the West Shore Railroad tracks, two hundred feet below. Now he's afraid the accursed thing will cause a bad train wreck "for," as he says, "you never can tell!"

NO FACTS FORTHCOMING FROM LIGHTING EXPERT

H. Whitford Jones Arrives in City and Confers With Councilmen and Others—Refuses to Give Information Sought By The Herald for Benefit of the Pub- lic.

Mr. H. Whitford Jones, of Cleveland, arrived in the city Wednesday morning on his way from another point in Ohio to Cleveland.

Mr. Jones is the man who was paid $600 by the city council for submitting plans and specifications for the scientific lighting of the city in an effort to obtain a modern lighting system at the lowest possible cost, and also to obtain new rates on private lighting and power.

While here Mr. Jones conferred with some of the councilmen and others regarding the lighting question which, following the protest arising over the cost of the system proposed, the injunction suit and subsequent setting aside of the alleged contract, is in a somewhat complex condition.

While in the city Mr. Jones announced to a Herald reporter that he did not deem it advisable to make answer to some sixteen questions propounded by The Herald on the 11th of September, and which questions he had previously announced that he would answer at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Jones, in refusing to give the information sought stated, in effect, that some of the information asked was of a character private to the lighting company, and he did not deem it advisable to reveal it, particularly when another lighting concern would probably submit a bid for lighting the city and furnishing light and power to private consumers.

The sixteen question propounded to Mr. Jones were for the purpose of obtaining information regarding the lighting contract submitted by Mr. Jones, which The Herald deemed of vital interest to Washington citizens, and believed they had a right to know.

JEFFERSONVILLE PIKE IS CLOSED

The Jeffersonville pike is closed again. This time the pike will be kept closed between the Procter farm gate and the intersection of the Jeffersonville and Prairie pikes, while the paving of the road between the two points is under way.

Contractors Parrish & Bales of Dayton, started work on the improvement Tuesday evening, beginning at the intersection of the Prairie pike and Jeffersonville pike.

Persons usually traveling the road are very much dissatisfied over the road being closed again this fall.

NO CONTAGION, SO QUARANTINE LIFTED

No case of varioloid, or mild small pox exists in the city, the suspected case in the western part of the city having proven chronic exema, which in appearance somewhat resembles varioloid.

The case in question was that of Mrs. D. L. Moore, who has suffered from the affliction for years. The quarantine has been lifted and the little scare caused by the report that small pox existed in the city has subsided.

Do not miss the church supper at the Presbyterian church, Friday, October 22.

NEW SYSTEM FOR THE PENNSYLVANIA

INDICTED FOR LEAVING FAMILY

The Clinton county grand jury has indicted Prof. Chas. Lewis upon a charge of abandoning his wife and children, and in default of bond the man was remanded back to jail to await his arraignment upon the charge lodged against him.

Meanwhile the girl whom he enticed from her home in Leesburg, is in Birmingham, Alabama, at the point of death after undergoing an operation for appendicitis. Her mother is at her bedside.

SWINE PLAGUE IS GIVEN ATTENTION

State Veterinarian Cooley, who was in this city this week, is said to have been drawn to Fayette county, in part at least, to consider the hog cholera conditions which are becoming more and more serious, according to reports from all parts of the county.

Just what is contemplated by the State Veterinarian, if indeed any action is planned, to rid the county of the plague, is not known.

According to reports from other counties the epidemic is not so great as in this county, which has become the central attraction for numerous "cholera cures" and preventatives.

WIFE OF CHIEF MOORE VERY CRITICALLY ILL

Mrs. D. L. Moore, wife of Chief of Police Moore, who has been ill for sometime, grew suddenly worse, Wednesday and her condition became very grave.

Wednesday afternoon she had rallied somewhat.

Remember the date of the Presbyterian church supper is Friday, October 22.

DISTINCTION IN DRESS

Really I'm quite fussy about my clothes

YO U'VE no idea of the time and thought I spend before I pick out a coat or a suit that is just to my liking. I don't mean simply the general style of the garment, but those little things which in themselves are so hardly noticeable but that can do so much to make or mar one's appearance.

There's the material that either helps to make your suit look just the thing for the occasion, or else makes it hopelessly out of place. There is the color that can be selected so that it will make even a commonplace complexion beautiful, that will make you like that suit better the longer you wear it. Then there are those little touches of trimming that help mark you apart from the crowd; that cause people to turn and admire your taste. And if you have any thought for service you will of course want to know how long the lining will retain that fresh, lustrous appearance that marks the garment of quality.

There is such a lot of comfort in being able to take off a jacket and throw it on a chair without having to think of its falling so that some shabby place in the lining is revealed. I found that out long ago, and that's one reason why I'm so fussy. But then you should be, because we are judged a good deal by the clothes we wear—by their neat, tidy appearance—by their shape-retaining qualities—by the quiet elegance of their coloring—the effectiveness of the trimming—all these are regarded as indicating whether you, who picked them out, are a woman of taste and refinement. That's why I've come to depend on PRINTZESS styles—I know they are right in every way.

If you are fussy about your clothes, if you want to be sure that they are absolutely right in style, that they have real shape-retaining qualities that will always make them look as though they had just come from the presser's table, if you want to be sure that you are getting a garment that has all those little things about which the average woman does not know, but which all have their effect in making her dress truly distinctive—come in and let us show you the Fall styles in PRINTZESS, for PRINTZESS suits and coats have all these qualities and our expert garment salespeople will be glad to show you why.

EAST END CHAPEL FULLY REORGANIZED LAST NIGHT

Elders and Deacons Chosen and Mission Henceforth Will Be Known as the McNair Memorial Presbyterian Church—Pastor Will Be Called Within Short Time.

East End Chapel, for a number of years a mission church, under the direction of the First Presbyterian church, was organized Tuesday night as an independent church and will be under the auspices of the Board of Home Missions of the Chillicothe Presbytery until the Spring meeting of Presbytery when definite action will be taken to effect its organization as a full fledged church. The new church will bear the name of the McNair Memorial Presbyterian church—a name especially fitting, since the chapel was erected under the ministry of Dr. J. L. McNair, twenty-two years ago, and affection for Dr. McNair was deeply instilled into the hearts of the parishioners.

Three ministers, Rev. T. C. Kerr, of Bloomingburg, Rev. Freely Rohrer of Greenfield and Rev. A. S. Kaye of Frankfort, and two Elders, Mr. Esselbury of Chillicothe and Mr. Robert Jefferson of Bloomingburg, represented the Presbytery as a special committee to effect the organization.

Rev. Rohrer acted as the moderator of the meeting and delivered a strong sermon.

The new church started out with 96 members and much zealous enthusiasm.

Three Elders were elected: Mrs. Sherman Reeder for a term of 3 years; Mr. Charles F. Bonham for 2 years and Mr. Mansfield for one year, and five deacons: Mr. W. A. Sanders for 5 years; Mr. Wert Backenstoe 4 years; Mr. Will Craig, 3 years; Richard Sollars, 2 years; Mr. Clarence Campbell, 1 year.

It is the intention of the church to call a pastor within a short time

In Social Circles

Many and attractive as have been the receptions given in Grace church, none have been characterized by more beauty of appointment and more delightful sociability than the reception tendered to the new pastor, Rev. J. V. Stone, and family, in charge of the Ladies Aid Society, Tuesday night.

The church looked exceedingly pretty with decorations of scarlet gerbera, carnations and smilax.

Between two and three hundred people attended. A committee of aid society women cordially filled the role of hostesses at the door and ushered the guests to the chancel, where Rev. and Mrs. Stone and son were receiving with Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Ireland and Mrs. Eva J. Penn.

After a mutual exchange of greetings which established most cordial relations between the new pastor and his family and the people, there was a short musical program, composed of beautiful organ solos by Miss Light and vocal solos by Miss Louise Larimer, a young girl whose musical contralto voice is attracting considerable attention.

Judge T. N. Craig delivered a short little address of welcome in a happy vein and Rev. Stone responded eloquently.

Rev. Wm. Boynton Gage and Rev. John Dalby made short addresses, welcoming Rev. Stone.

The Sunday school room had been converted into a tea room, with tea tables beautifully embellished in cut glass, silver and cut glass, a scarlet and green color scheme employed.

A delicious collation was served, fifty guests seated at once.

The favors were pansies and autumn leaves pinned on by young girls, Helen Durant, Eleanore McClain, Ruth Cissna, Ruth Tanquary and Dorothy Briggs.

Assisting Mrs. Arthur Plyley, president of the society, in the management of the reception were Mesdames Welter Briggs, Ella Taylor, Walter Girard, Ed Pine, B. E. Keller, John Durant, Luella Chapman, Wm. Bishop, J. C. Dunn, Glenn M. Rodgers.

Mrs. O. E. Tanquary and Mrs. Jesse Blackmer poured at the tea table.

Tuesday night's Browning Club was well attended, Mrs. Martha Mark, first vice president, in the chair for the opening of business.

Mrs. Mary West was elected to active membership and Mrs. Mary Barchet reinstated as associate member. Mrs. Vinna Wilson prefaced the program with a pretty piano solo.

The Department of Literature took charge of the program, Miss Esther Ireland, vice chairman, presiding.

"The Drama" furnished a most interesting topic. During the last few years the pen of the dramatist has been skillfully used in presenting certain phases of the woman's question. It is not strange that strong emotions as aroused by these women writers and the great conflict in the east be united in a dramatic play "The War Brides," by Marion Craig Wentworth.

This play was effectively read by Miss Florence Ogle. It depicted strongly the suffering and sacrifices made by women in response to the Emperor's order, with the various objections and demands involved.

The most distinctive contribution to the economic phase of the Woman's Question was given by Miss Gertrude Channell in a little play, "His now-a-days," by George Middleton. It dealt with the professional independence of women, bringing out the value of the middle-aged women having outside interests in life.

The Cecilians enjoyed a beautiful program at the home of Mrs. Lona G. Hughey Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Glenn M. Pine presiding.

Miss Del Lanum opened it with a reading on "How to Listen to Music." Mrs. Nina M. Craig gave a paper on "Welfare Music" out of the ordinary in its interest. Mrs. Craig said that the musical clubs of Columbus and Youngstown were providing teachers for those desiring to study music and not financially able.

Mrs. Winifred W. Shoop sang with much charm and artistic interpretation "A Cycle of Life"—Laudon Ronald. Mrs. Fannie P. Ballard, accompanist.

Mrs. Greiner was the club's only guest.

Miss Sallie Purcell pleasantly entertained the Wednesday eucher club this afternoon.

ENTIRE CHANGE IN THE NEW BILL

Revenue Program Practically Completed.

HAS ANTI-DUMPING CLAUSE

Plan Will Be Laid Before the Members of the Ways and Means Committee at a Meeting to Be Held at the National Capital in November. President Hopeful of the Program's Approval.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Majority members of the ways and means committee will meet here in November, when President Wilson will place before them the revenue program, which he has practically completed.

The president, it was authoritatively stated, intends to co-operate with Representative Kitchen, the majority leader of the house, and his colleagues, to the fullest possible extent, and if serious opposition to his present plans develop in the ways and means committee he will make every effort to reach an agreement. The president is hopeful, however, that the program as it now stands will meet with the approval of the house leaders.

The program embodies the re-enactment of the emergency revenue laws; the repeal of that provision of the sugar schedule which would place sugar on the free list May 1; the issuance of bonds to meet the increases in the army and navy appropriations; the enactment of the anti-dumping clause of the Underwood act, which was reported favorably by the ways and means committee at the last session of congress, but was stricken from the measure by a viva voce vote of the house.

The president, it is said, still has under consideration the levy of a small duty on wool for revenue.

The most interesting phase of the president's program as it now stands is the provision for the enactment of anti-dumping legislation. The provision of the Underwood bill, which probably will be given approval, follows: "That whenever articles are exported to the United States of a class and kind made or produced in the United States, if the export or actual selling price to an importer or the United States, or the price at which such goods are consigned is less than the fair market value of the same article when sold for home consumption, the usual and ordinary course in the country whence exported to the United States at the time of its exportation to the United States,

NEW YORK

"CLAY FOOTED" MEN FLAYED

New York, Oct. 20.—"Men with clay feet," was the way ex-President Taft characterized some of the individuals who are looked upon as the nation's greatest personages in the course of a lecture at Columbia university on "The Presidency and Its Powers." "The president," said Mr. Taft, "has a wonderful chance to see deeply into the characters of the men with whom he comes into close contact, and that means nearly every senator and representative, besides a great many others. And I have been surprised to see the men with clay feet who have won fame with the nation as statesmen for reasons I have never been able to fathom, while men of sturdy qualities who really should be called to fame are left in the background, where they do the work for which the others get the credit and the glory." Mr. Taft denounced the methods of selecting men for the ordinary business positions in the government service.

BULGAR SUCCESS TAKES RAILWAY

Stop Allied Reinforcements For the Serbians.

TEUTONS MAKE PROGRESS

Italy Formally Declares War On Bulgaria and Russia is Expected to Follow Her Example—Allies Make New Diplomatic Move With Respect to Greece—Review of Day's Operations On Other Fronts.

London, Oct. 20.—A dispatch from Rome states that an Italian squadron has left the near east under sealed orders, supposedly to participate in the blockade of the Bulgarian coast.

The Teutonic and Bulgarian armies continue to make progress against the Serbians, but, except in the north, where the Serbs are being forced back into the mountains, the various reports do not go far towards clarifying the situation.

The Bulgarians have cut the railway between Uskup and Nisa, so it is likely that, except in the extreme south, where they have the support of the Anglo-French troops landed at Salonika, the Serbians are falling back to stronger natural positions. Istip and Kotehana, it is said, have already been evacuated.

Bulgarian troops have captured the Serbian town of Vranja, on the Nish-Salonika railroad line, it was announced by German army headquarters.

Cutting of the railway line means the stoppage of a rapid advance of allied reinforcements for the Serbians from Salonika. Vranja is about fifty miles south of Nish, where the arrival of French and British troops to aid the struggling Serbian army in the north has been anxiously awaited.

Berlin also announces the capture by the Austrians of the town of Obrenovatz, on the Save front of the Serbian war theater, and a further advance of the Teutonic force south of Belgrade. The Austrians in the Obrenovatz district had apparently been virtually at a standstill since shortly after the opening of the Serbian campaign.

Italy, which, singularly enough, is still technically at peace with Germany, has declared war on Bulgaria, and Russia is expected to follow her example almost immediately. When this formality is completed, it is possible that the action which Italy and Russia intend to take in the Balkans will be defined.

The allies also have made a new diplomatic move with respect to Greece, the British and Russian ministers having delivered a note to Athens, explaining that the allies do not agree with the Greek government's interpretation of the Greco-Serbian treaty, and notifying Premier Zimis of their intention to land more troops at Salonika. It is not expected, however, that anything but allied success will have any influence with Greece, or for that matter, with Roumania. Russia is trying for this in Galicia and Volhynia, where General Ivanoff has won several local victories and is keeping the Austro-Germans busy.

Germans continue to attack the Russians south of Riga and the Russians are on the offensive to the south and west of Dvinsk. The Germans are being considerably hampered by British submarines in the Baltic, for, besides sinking a large number of steamers engaged in the ore trade between Germany and Sweden, the submarines are interfering with transports between German ports and the Courland coast.

EARLY NOTICE OF SUCCESSFUL APPLICANTS FOR SALOON LICENSES

Columbus, Oct. 20.—On orders of Governor Willis, the state licensing board directed county license boards to make announcement of successful license applicants next Saturday. This was earlier than the state board had expected to call for the announcement, but the governor insisted that the successful applicants be announced as soon before election, Nov. 2, as possible.

INFORMATION IS MUCH SOUGHT

London, Oct. 20.—Owing to the illness of Premier Asquith and the delicate negotiations which are proceeding between the allies, the enlightenment which the meeting of the house of commons was expected to throw on the Balkan operations, over which Sir Edward Carson is believed to have resigned from the cabinet, and on the substitution of Major General Monro for General Sir Ian Hamilton to command in the Dardanelles, was not forthcoming.

There were more than 100 questions in the house on the orders of the day, dealing chiefly with near eastern affairs, the Dardanelles and the method of raising necessary men for the army, and while the ministers answered many of them, in no case was the information which the public was anxiously awaiting supplied.

He went down at last from a vicious right swing fair to the point of the jaw. He was out before he hit the floor. The Dublin Giant went out game. Although arising, he was a hopelessly beaten man and Referee Brown stopped the contest.

"TOTTER" SIDE OF IT

New York, Oct. 20.—The government today began its presentation of evidence against the New Haven directors in the United States circuit court. Several witnesses were called for the purpose of identifying minutes and other records.

Charles S. Mellen, one time president of the road, the prosecution's star witness, is to go on the stand twice according to the present plans, the first time to testify as to his knowledge of facts acquired during his first employment with the road, prior to his going west, and then as to what he learned when he returned as president in 1903. This plan of dividing the Mellen testimony was vigorously opposed by counsel for William Rockefeller, who spoke on behalf of all the lawyers on the side of the defense. Attorney Lindabury said they wanted Mr. Mellen to tell everything he knows at one time, so that cross-examination may follow at once. Judge Hunt said he would determine definitely when he hears what Mr. Mellen tells.

OLD AND NEW WAY TO TREAT CATARRH

Breathing a Germ Killing Air Endorsed by Actual Results.

The discovery of Hyomei has wrought a wonderful change in the treatment of catarrh.

Prior to three years ago the medicines ordinarily employed in the cure of this disease were drugs, sprays, lotions, etc. In some instances they benefited, but the improvement was not lasting.

With Hyomei you take into the air passages of your throat and head a balsamic air that goes into the minutest cells, and should effectually kill all germs and microbes of catarrh. Its purpose is to enter the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood, and restore health to the whole system. Many astonishing testimonials have been received from those who have been helped by Hyomei.

A complete outfit is inexpensive and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment.

Perhaps the strongest evidence that can be given to doubters, is the fact that Brown's Drug Store have so much faith in Hyomei that they sell every package under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve.

THE REAL MR. BOWSER

He Is Not Always a Faddist.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The other day Mr. Bowser left his office at noon to go home and do some tinkering around the house. When within five or six blocks from home he got off the car to see why a crowd had collected on a corner. He found that a city marshal and an assistant were carrying furniture from an old tenement and placing it on the sidewalk, and there was much laughing and jeering over the dilapidated pieces.

There were three weeping and very ragged children standing around, and the sight of them made Mr. Bowser demand of one of the crowd:

"What is going on here?"

"They are evicting a woman up stairs," was the reply.

"What for?"

"They say she is sick and can't pay her rent."

"Sick? Sick? And expecting a sick woman to pay her rent? Are these her children? And is this her old stuff?"

"I guess so."

"Well, I'll be sure of it," said Mr. Bowser as he walked upstairs.

He entered a small, dirty room just as two men were lifting a sick woman am going to move you and the children to another place and see that you are taken care of."

Mr. Bowser went two blocks down the street, and in fifteen minutes had rented a large airy room on the second floor of a very decent tenement and had paid for three months in advance. He then hustled out to a nearby furniture store and bought a new bedstead, mattress and springs and several articles of furniture and had them taken to the room at once. Then he went back and told the sick woman's children, who were still waiting at the door as they watched that the old furniture was not being carried off, to sit with their mother and be of good cheer. Then he entered a grocery, half a block away, and said to the grocer:

"I want to give you an order for about $10 worth of things, and have them sent to Mrs. Merkle at No. 224, this street."

"Ah! That is the sick woman who was to be evicted today?"

"It was, sir."

"But I could not send her any groceries. She has owed me a bill of 45 cents more than two months. I can give her no more credit."

"You blamed scallywag!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he pounded on the counter.

"Did I say that she wanted credit? Haven't I got the money right in my fist to pay for the order?"

The grocer turned red and pale and tried to stammer out something.

"And, see here, sir," continued Mr. Bowser as his anger grew; "you heard that a poor widow, sick, helpless and hungry, was going to be evicted. Did you walk down there and offer any help?"

"No-o-o."

"You didn't even go down to tell her that you would forgive her debt of 45 cents. You have fifty loaves of bread here. You didn't carry one down there? In fact, you didn't care a rap about the whole thing."

"I am a very busy man, sir," humbly replied the grocer.

"Yes, I see you are. You are busy grabbing every cent in sight, and the poor around you might starve to death for any of your charity. We will make out a list, and I will pay for it, and you hustle the things along and let them be of full weight and good measure. Your scales are correct, are they?"

"Oh, yes, yes, yes."

There would be need of coal and kindling at the new place, and Mr. Bowser stopped and ordered them.

"It is for the widow Merkle, is it?" asked the small dealer.

"Yes."

"She owes 23 cents and don't pay. I like that money. She buy coal of me for three years and then beat me out of 23 cents."

"You infernal hyena!" roared Mr. Bowser at him. "Twenty-three cents! Twenty-three cents! She has bought coal of you for three years, and you have cheated her every time she has given an order, and yet you are hanging off about an old debt of 23 cents! Say, man, you ought to be tarred and feathered!"

"Well, I take some coal and kindling to her," grimaced the man, who did not wish to provoke Mr. Bowser any further. "I take up this nice bag of coal of seventy-five pounds."

"You bring it into this butcher shop first," said Mr. Bowser, who had a good eye for weights and measures.

"But that butcher man, he don't like me and tell me to keep way out of the shop."

"Well, you come in just the same, and if the butcher acts up I may have something to say to him. Put that bag on the scales."

The man made a wry face and hesitated, but he had to do it. The weight was sixty-seven pounds.

"You are a slick second," said Mr. Bowser. "You are going to cheat the widow again before she could die. It is such villians as you that make half the world hard hearted. Here is your money for the order, and don't you eat up any of the kindlings on your way there."

Mr. Bowser had one more errand. He got the name of a doctor who had made the widow two visits and had failed to come again and telephoned him:

"Is this Dr. Blake?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were you over here to see the widow Merkle?"

"I was over there a couple of times, but I found she couldn't pay the bill, off the bed on to the floor. She was as white as a sheet and so weak that she did not even protest.

"What in thunder are you doing?" shouted Mr. Bowser.

The men lifted the woman back on the bed, and then the officer looked up and inquired:

"Who are you, and what is your business here?"

"My name is Bowser, and I came here just in time to see a sick woman treated as few men would treat a dog. What do you mean by it?"

"I have my orders to evict her for nonpayment of rent."

"And did you have orders to kill her in doing it? I denounce it as a shame and disgrace on humanity!"

"I am the owner of the building," said a man as he came upstairs and confronted Mr. Bowser.

"Oh, you are, are you? You applied to the law to have this woman brought into the street in her state of health because she could not pay rent?"

"But I am not to blame for her sickness, and I must have my money because I am a poor man?"

"How much rent does she owe you?"

"Eight dollars."

"And for $8 you would have a dying woman flung into the gutter! That's it! The poor are always talking about how the rich oppress them. It is not so. It is the poor that oppress the poor. This is a fine case of it."

Mr. Bowser went walking around the room, sniffing and sniffing and peering, and returned to the man to say:

"Has the board of health ever inspected this place?"

The man did not answer.

"There is hardly a whole pane of glass in the windows; there are two or three leaks in the roof; the water pipes are out of order, and the place is so full of odors and smells that a decent farmer wouldn't use it for a hog pen. This woman may owe you $8, but she shall never pay it. She is going to leave here in a few minutes, and if you ever bother her or let a new tenant in here before making it a decent place I'll see that you will have to pay a smart fine for it!"

The owner and the officer looked at each other and then went downstairs together. The woman had not spoken. Only now and then had she opened her eyes. Mr. Bowser bent over her, but he saw that she was too sick to talk. He therefore said:

"Don't you worry, good woman. I and so I didn't come again."

"What was your diagnosis?"

"Malaria."

"Well, you hustle over here and see if it is the same thing yet. I want to get the medicine for her."

"Will you pay for the three visits?" asked the doctor.

"I'll pay half the bill, and you will tack the other half on to the bill of some rich man. That's the custom of the doctors, I understand."

The doctor came. The prescription was filled, and a bottle of tonic was to be taken after the medicine was finished.

It was 7 o'clock in the evening when Mr. Bowser said to the woman:

"The doctor tells me that you will be up at your work again in a couple of weeks. But don't be in a hurry. Your rent is paid a long time ahead, you have got plenty to eat, and there is nothing for you to worry about."

"But you have not told me your name," replied the woman, who needed a good deal better since the change in her fortune.

"Oh, never mind that till I come next time."

Mr. Bowser went home and never mentioned a word of the incident, nor did he go back to the house of the widow. Two weeks had passed away when one evening the doorbell rang, and Mrs. Bowser answered it. After a minute she went back to Mr. Bowser to say:

"Here is the woman and three children who want to see what they call the 'good' man. Do they mean you?"

"I guess not," he blushed.

But the widow and children came in, and told their story and repeated their thanks a hundred times over, and when they had gone Mrs. Bowser said:

"Mr. Bowser, you provoke me a hundred times a year, but you are the best husband in this whole world. Kiss me."

And when Mr. Bowser kissed her they both had tears in their eyes.

Baden-Powell, who originated the boy scout organization, after serving in many high and honorable positions in the British army, opposes compulsory military training for boys. It would repress individuality, he says, and "it would destroy the good work of all those great voluntary movements for boys which, after an experience of twenty-five years, are beginning to influence so large a proportion of our manhood." Coming at this time when the military authorities and the aristocracy are making a concerted effort to fasten conscription upon England, General Baden-Powell's condemnation of compulsory military training will be highly serviceable to the radical and labor elements that are unqualifiedly opposed to conscription as anti-democratic.

Perhaps the weather man and the clouds have simply been throwing a wet blanket over the fiery enthusiasm of certain folks at home and abroad.

"You are a slick second," said Mr. Bowser. "You are going to cheat the widow again before she could die. It is such villians as you that make half the world hard hearted. Here is your money for the order, and don't you eat up any of the kindlings on your way there."

Mr. Bowser had one more errand. He got the name of a doctor who had made the widow two visits and had failed to come again and telephoned him:

"Is this Dr. Blake?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were you over here to see the widow Merkle?"

"I was over there a couple of times, but I found she couldn't pay the bill,

MEMOIR.

Nancy Lockhart, daughter of Samuel and Mary Lockhart, was born March 30, 1830. She was called from this life to her eternal and happy reward, October 17, 1915 at the ripe old age of 85 years, 6 months and 17 days.

On the 3rd of May, 1854 she was married to J. C. Irvin and became a very devoted and faithful wife. To this union four children were born, Oscar, Clara and Willie (who were called in early life) and S. Eldon Irvin, in whose home his sainted mother received the kindest of care and where she quietly "fell asleep."

Mrs. Irvin leaves to meditate her departure one son, one daughter, four grandsons, two granddaughters and one great grandson, and a host of good friends.

At the age of 20 she united with the Church of Christ and one of her greatest blessings was her zeal for the church and her pleasure in its work. Her life is fittingly expressed in the following lines:

I live for those who love me,
For those who know me true;
For the heaven that shines above me
That's waiting for me too.
For the cause that needs assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance
For the good that I can do.
